

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention is directed to a polymeric balloon for an intracorporeal catheter having a plurality of spaced apart, remotely imageable layers which facilitate the folding of the balloon. The imageable layer may facilitate imaging the balloon or a portion thereof preferably by fluoroscopic or magnetic resonance based remote imaging systems.

10002406 " 10101